

Pretty by Nature

Sugar Sweet

by NOEL BOEHM on August 31st, 2008

We've had lots of conversations here about hair removal methods. My husband and I have made a pact that if we ever get really rich, we're going to start tipping hundred dollar bills and we will both get laser hair removal. As such I am always on the look out for fast, EASY methods to do the job. Shaving seems to win out every time even though I don't really like the result all the time. Waxing you have to let it grow out a little and more than a few days is too much for me. However I just might change my tune after I try Shobha's new Sugaring kit. It's basically just lemon juice and sugar that grips onto the hair making it easier to remove. It comes with reusable denim strips, which I think is such a great idea. Has anyone tried the sugar removal method before? I know there are others on the market that supposedly work well.

Many years ago I tried Nad's (unfortunately named) and I ended up with bloody, raw skin and an ant problem. I'm willing to give Shobha's sytem a try though. My leg hair grows VERY slowly so I may have to give it a few weeks to try. Any rants or raves about it?

