

My Style Pill Likes: Jane of Studio JYC

Posted at September 28, 2009

Let me ask you ladies a question. When it comes to your brows, how do you maintain them? Are you fans of waxing? Sugaring? Threading? Or, do you trust no one but yourself when it comes to plucking? I used to wax, but somehow along the way, I got into threading and have been hooked ever since. It's come time for me to clean up my brows again, and when I am in New York, by recommendations from my friends Heather and Jennifer, I go to Shobha, which is amazing. But, while I was at home for a good solid month, I started to panic about where to go to clean up my brows. I procrastinated a bit because I had become so accustomed to getting them by Shashi, so by the time I discovered Studio JYC, I will admit, the brows were slightly out of hand. So, without further adieu, let me introduce you to Jane. Jane is awesome and funny and lovely. Her salon is located within another salon and has an adorable print hanging on the door. Upon first meeting her, I was instantly put at ease and all the reviews I read about her and her work were absolutely true. She doesn't under or over-thread and really knows her stuff. So, if ever in Seattle, or for those of you that live there, I will have to insist that you go to Studio JYC. Her services include waxing, sugaring and threading. Check out her full services, here. Thanks again Jane. I love my brows! Click below to see my lovely brows.
