

coming up roses

by eva chern may 14, 2010

Confession: I'm a sucker for anything rose-scented—the smell reminds me of my grandmother (in a good, non-old-lady way... I adore her!).

Confession #2: I'm sort of obsessed with hand sanitizers/wipes. Maybe I'm just klutzy (or maybe it's just that I live in a dirty city, lol), but I go through them like water: clearing up spills, wiping my hands after touching the subway poles, etc. I recently got a pack of Shobha's Rosewater Freshening Cloths. First impression? Unlike most wipes, they smell DIVINE—like fresh cut roses! Second impression? I managed to clean off an entire Frappuccino I spilled all over myself, spic and span, with just one of the heavy-duty wipes. Hooray! I'm definitely going to stock up on these. Visit MyShobha.com to buy them for $9.

posted in home

tags cleansing cloths | shobha

permalink | comments \(8\)