I'm a rare oddity, I know, but the one makeup I won't leave the house without (not including a moisturizer with SPF of course) is an eye brow pencil. My brows are so ridiculously light and thin, that without it, I feel undone. With it, my eyes stand out more and my face looks more polished. Seriously, I would leave the house without mascara before I would leave the house without a brow pencil.

My new favorite pencil is from Shobha. The pencil, which comes in a light and a dark shade, is paraben free and waterproof. I also love that it has a sharpener built into its cap, so you get a fresh, definite point every time--a key when it comes to filling in brows.

Now you tell me. What makeup won't you leave the house without?
