

KRISTA C - SHOBHA

Rating: ★★★★★

There are three things I look for in a good waxing place for my most delicate parts:

- 1). Clean. The last thing anyone wants is an infection in the hoo-hoo area. So they must enforce a strict policy of no double dipping, use new strips every time and disinfectant spray everything!
- 2). Quick. The faster they pull those cloth strips, the less pain you feel. Also, the quicker you are able to get your clothes back on, the better. I once went to a spa/salon that took 1 hour to finish the job. Yes, it was quite chilly and painful. No, I do not have that much hair—you were probably wondering. It's like.. Jeebus, you're not taking out my appendix just cleanin' my shrub!
- 3). Thorough. Stray and ingrown hairs end up making the whole thing look like an abused chia pet. It would sort of defeat the purpose of waxing in the first place if it were to amass roars of laughter from anyone who happened to see it.

Shobha satisfied all three of these components; that's all I need. Some people yelp that they require their waxing person to possess stellar people skills. To be honest, I don't need someone to smile at me while they are giving me a brazilian wax. It would creep me out a lot if she smiled the entire time I lay there nude from the waist down under a large fluorescent light. Is it because she likes what she sees? Or do my cavernous stretch marks amuse her? How about you try to keep an upbeat disposition after tearing ass and crotch hair out by the roots all day. Having said that, the waxing technicians are still personable enough. So much so that you almost forget you're laying on your back while holding your legs in the air by your ankles as she prods hot wax in areas you didn't even know contained nerve endings.

Categories: Hair Removal, Skin Care

594 Broadway

Ste 403

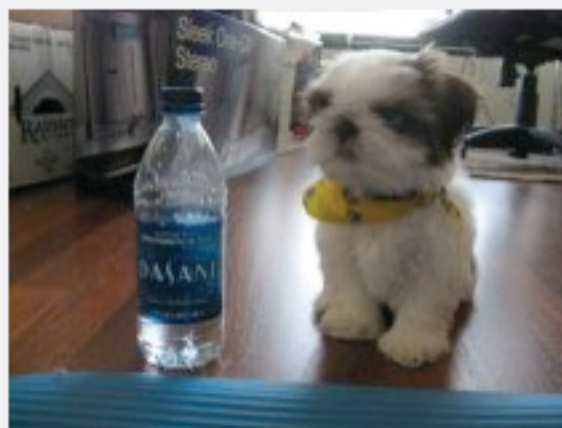

(between Prince St & Houston St)

New York, NY 10012

Neighborhood: SoHo

(212) 931-8363

<http://www.myshobha.com>

Krista C. Ironic that she discusses hair removal in the nether regions and has a profile picture of a little fluffy dog.