

welcome back, nyfw!

{violet lashes at an old chris benz show}

{the backboard of ana sui show, reminds me of my blog's background}

{i can't remember what show this was, but the clashing colors were so much fun}

it's new york fashion week again. nyfw and i are old friends. while i have a love/hate relationship with the crowded shows/tents and being the fattest and shortest person in most rooms for the entire week i realize how lucky i am to have my own small niche that allows me to participate in this nyc institution. i'm hoping i'll run into some of my favorite bloggers from around the country and i will get to enjoy drinks, meals, and quick words with women i admire.

in the last few days i've visited shobha for a brow touch up, gotten a b. bronz clearly bronz solution spray tan, and sent in my RSVPs. right now i feel like i'm in pretty good shape. in the days to come i'll be covering many of my favorite looks and trends here, but for minute by minute commentary follow makeuplovesme on twitter and see all my pictures in real time by subscribing to makeuplovesme on instagram.

welcome back, nyfw!

Posted by makeup loves me at 9/07/2012

Labels: fashion week

NO COMMENTS:

Post a Comment